WPB117 CAWNS: Friendly Fishing

More than just a pass-time, fishing connects us with the wildlife with which we share our planet.

Enjoying this hobby while maintaining the proper balance and the dynamics that go with it requires attention and respect for the water. We use this stewardship tool to help minimize or eradicate the possibility of extinction of not only marine life, but of any given species.

While this activity is relaxing and fun, it can become a technical sport or even necessary for living off the land.

"Every Scout ought to be able to fish in order to get food for himself. A tenderfoot [beginner] who starved on the bank of a river full of fish would look very silly, yet it might happen to one who had never learned to catch fish."

Wehinahpay Mountain Camp 2022

WPB126 Trades: Science Non-fiction

In learning about inventing, robotics and space exploration, Scouts study how their favorite genre of entertainment could be a future career.

Space is mysterious. Each time we send explorers into space, we learn something we didn't know before. We discover a little more of what is there. Scouts will come to understand the things we already know about the stars and the many methods of learning what we don't.

Houston we've got a problem! Scouts will have to learn how robots function in the field to aid us in our mission, including how they move (actuators), sense the environment (sensors), and how robots understand what to do (programming); inventing a tool to solve a problem in zero gravity? Now that's something for the books!
